Root&Steel is a brand that designs and manufactures handcrafted eyewear inspired by nature — where each piece is shaped by its material and refined by hand.

Using natural materials such as wood, stone and horn, we combine traditional craftsmanship with a contemporary design approach. Every frame is unique, carrying the natural character of the material it comes from.

Our aim is not only to create eyewear, but to offer a personal experience — shaped by time, patience, and human touch.

Inspired by retro and vintage aesthetics, our designs are guided by sustainability and respect for nature. We focus on creating timeless pieces that are both durable and expressive.

Our vision is to become a globally recognized brand in handcrafted eyewear, exploring natural materials and pushing the boundaries of traditional production.

By placing sustainability at the core of our process, we take responsibility for creating products that last — both in form and meaning.

WOOD COLLECTION

NATURAL. LAYERED. REFINED.

Crafted from multi-layer laminated wood, each frame is built through precision layering to achieve strength, flexibility, and balance.

Natural grain flows through every layer, creating depth that cannot be replicated.

CRAFTED IN LAYERS

Grain and texture,
balance and form.
Layered by design,
crafted by hand.

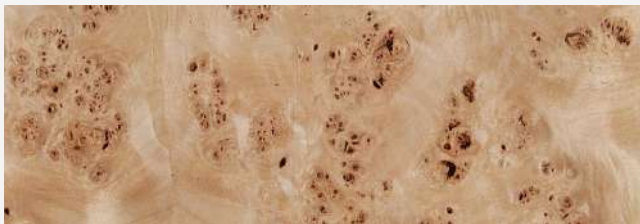

A close-up, high-contrast photograph of a piece of wood. The image shows the intricate grain of the wood, with a lighter, smoother section on the left and a darker, more textured section on the right. The bark is visible along the top edge, showing a rough, cracked texture. The lighting is warm and directional, highlighting the natural textures and colors of the wood.
